Biography:

Unlord is a North European band existing since 1989. Unlord started out as a musical expression of some friends. They recorded three demos in a period of 6 years. None of those were ever available for sale. Their third demo was so incredibly good and strong, that they immediately got a deal with Displeased Records. Unlord still remains the musical expression of some very talented musicians. You can immediately hear the mystical, atmospheric yet brutal backgrounds of the members. Unlord's goal is not big publicity about their music, they only want people to enjoy their creations.

In 1997 Unlord released their cult debut album 'Schwarzwald', the band entered the studio again in the spring of 2000 to record their second album 'Gladiator', which was released in september 2000. Unlord stuck to their brilliant black metal style which they showed on their debut 'Schwarzwald'. No trendy whimpy style, just great black metal the way the masters play it. The band recorded their third and last album in 2001. 'Lord of beneath' will blow everyone away; Unlord put everything they have in this album. As many times as it has been said, it's really true this time: Their best album by FAR! Cover painting drawn by Petagno, whose work for Motörhead, Led Zeppelin, Pink Floyd and Marduk is well known throughout the scene.
