Biography:

Månegarm were formed in the cold end of november 1995 but under another name, which they changed the month after. In May 1996 the very first demotape was recorded at Underground Studios. The tape got named 'Vargaresa' and included four cold nordic hymns. Unfortunately, because of passivity of the band it didn't reach many labels and zines.

After a couple of months playing, a lack of interest was noticed in the band, so the guitarist, drummer and bass player decided to form a new project with a new vocalist and second guitarist. The project ended up as Månegarm, with a new line-up. With new material they were about to record the second demo at the end of 1996, when the vocalist suddenly jumps off. But with some vocal help of a friend the second demo was recorded in late february 1997 at Sunlight Studios. This time the tape was sent to quite many labels and the response was very good and in August 1997 Månegarm signed to Displeased Records. The rest is history, so to speak. Three well-received full lengths followed, of which 'Ödöspård' meant a huge increase of their popularity. In 2004 both demos were released on the Vargaresa - the beginning album. In the same period as the release of 'Vargaresa' the band returned to the studio to record their fourth studio album 'Vredens tid'. Månegarm recorded a great album in which they kept the pure viking sound and included more metal to it. It has the same catchiness as 'Ödöspård', but with a very own identity.

- 1 Inero
- 2 Himmelspursten
- 3 Utpard
- 4 Alvaerans
- 5 Hemsomst
- 6 Döden
- 7 Vaggvisa

Månegarm has been playing festivals, clubshows and a tour with Skyforger (LV) & Goddess of Desire (NL) last year.

This new Folk style mini album is something the band wanted to do for a long time and it turned out even better than they expected. A masterpiece in the Folk genre with of course the aid of the Swedish Folk band 'Två Fisk Och En Fåsk'.
